

Laconic Sections

Harth, Winter MW

Seven diagram entries are elliptical and another seven are inversely hyperbolic. Clues for the former group consist of wordplay only; their full solutions, entered in the spaces below, will reveal a word of advice to the verbose. In the clues for the latter group, wordplay corresponds to the diagram entries, which are not words and which violate that advice. Yet another group of seven clues are concatenated into a parabolic piece about writing economically. The remaining 21 clues are normal.

Parable

Standard, unusually clean manner of communication, pretty perfect vehicle for character. (Unprepared, assuming you knew how to place one in carriage return.) Letters from abroad: short draft smarts painfully. Using energy within, cleverly steer recipe to get more laconic.
